

Dear New Students:

Excited? Nervous? Nervously excited? I'm sure your range of emotions is vast, and I'm sure many of you haven't given considerable attention to what you'd like to do after your years at Covenant College. Further, you may not be sure about how to figure out what you'd like to do or how to get there.

While we certainly don't expect that you'll have your next decade mapped out, it is our intention to help you assess your talents and desires and match those to needs in the working world. As you will learn in your Christian Mind class, we take a much different approach to the view of vocation and career. It is our genuine hope that you will learn how your skills, talents and desires mesh with God's created order. Further, it is the duty of our office to help you find opportunities to learn what you do and do not like to do.

We have heard countless stories of employers in both for-profit and non-profit organizations that eagerly seek Covenant College students and graduates for internships and job opportunities. The way Covenant prepares you to think and act can help develop integrity and a work ethic that companies and organizations desire.

Please visit us early, so we can begin the process of identifying paths for you to serve Christ in our world. The more time we get to spend together, the better we will be at identifying opportunities for you -- whether for internships during the school year and summer or for post graduation job opportunities.

I look forward to meeting you on campus.
